What are kids saying about Vickie Musni?

The talk was something different or special because from a 14 year old kid like me it takes something really interesting to keep me engaged for that long and Vickie did just that I was paying attention the whole time with no effort. She was very inspiring at that was very special to me.

– Lucas (14) Knoxville, TN

A very colorful experience for the NSA youth. It was a inspiring for all personalities, and I would love to hear Vickie again. – Claire (11) Kansas City

Vickie's presentation was very engaging and fun for everyone. She was one of my favorite speakers and I am very excited to use her information of the colors to help me understand others.

– Abby (15) Springboro, Ohio

I loved hearing Vickie's presentation early on in my life and week. Learning about the different color personalities taught me why I do activities different than others. – Zoe (14) Dallas, Texas

The talk really opens your eyes about your personality and others, this really helps you discover more about who you are as a person and how you can network better with people.

– Theo (16) Wilton, CT

The speech was so good! It was interactive, it was fun, and it really got all of our attention. I loved trying to find out my color and my friends colors. – Zach (14) Las Vegas, Nevada

What are educators saying about Vickie Musni?

Vickie was a great choice for staff development and has improved teamwork and school district morale. -- Keeli Killian, Reno, NV

WE've all been there: knowing that something is off with your interaction with colleagues, but you can't put your finger on it. Now you can! Vickie's approach helped me size up my personality and those I work with quickly, leading to better communication and collaboration.

-- Kimber Graham, Au.D., San Jose, California

Loved hearing Vickie Musni's presentation about the different types of personalities. Our staff benefitted so much from this presentation that it has carried over into their everyday language and into our schools. We love to present topics and people who bring excitement to their profession and to ours so it was a pleasure to have her at our training. -- Lisa Bartoli, Reno, Nevada

Personalities for Educators allowed me to reflect on my last few years of teaching and working with people and I wish I had it sooner! I found the book to be an easy, yet very interesting and engaging read. I really liked that there was opportunity to stop and reflect after reading a chapter by having "note" pages along with some reflecting questions. It is great that the book covers many aspects of the teaching profession, not just relationships with students but also with support staff, parents, teachers, etc. I believe that it is important to have a good working relationship with those around you and knowing how to approach individuals with different personalities will be handy during the school year! - Danielle Myers, Ontario, Canada
